NOTE: Numbers in ( ) in last two columns refer to number of plans rated

- Ignoring baseline scores and discarding the first reliability scores earned while being trained, the average inter-rater reliability score for Raters A, B, C & D on the remaining plans they scored in order to meet the 75% or higher inter-rater reliability criterion was 77.35%.
- The average inter-rater reliability score for Raters A, B, C & D for ALL plans they rated while becoming reliable raters (not including baseline scores or training plans) was 78.36%.
- The average reliability for all non-baseline/non-training plans that Raters A, B, C & D have rated (including reliability drift checks): 79.00%.
- The average inter-rater reliability score for Raters A, B, C & D on the three plans on which they scored 75% or higher and achieved inter-rater agreement (i.e., became reliable raters) was 81.86%.
